

Higher values indicate stronger scalar sensitivity to induced damage; they do not by themselves indicate a better metric.